Greg Sanders specializes in land use entitlement, environmental, and real estate transactional matters. He represents telecommunications and real estate development companies, real estate investors, and government agencies throughout California on various matters, including general plan conformity, zoning, environmental issues, permitting of complex real estate development projects, development agreements, telecommunications facilities, and on real estate purchases, sales, and lease matters.

Greg has prepared general plan provisions, general plan amendments, zoning ordinances, use permits, conditions of approval, and development agreements for various land use matters in more than 30 jurisdictions in California.

He drafted bills and worked with the State legislature and staff to enact legislation authorizing financing and construction of the San Joaquin, Foothill and Eastern Toll Roads in Orange County, California, which are the first toll roads built in the state.
