Sam Pusateri leads all aspects of financial reporting, financial and profitability analysis and client pricing at Nossaman. Sam works directly with all areas within Nossaman from firm management to administrative departments to individual attorneys and policy advisors, assisting each with their specific financial needs. Some of these areas include financial and strategic analysis for both the Firm and its practices, including lateral analysis, client profitability and compensation and rate determination.

Sam has more than 30 years of experience in the professional services industry, including the last 13 years at Nossaman and prior to that, six years in the financial planning and analysis area at two AmLaw 20 firms. Before transitioning to legal, he spent 13 years in various financial management positions at one of the top public relations firms in the world, with his last position as Financial Manager of both the Los Angeles office and Entertainment Marketing division.
